About us:

- The analemma is a figure-eight shape the sun makes in the sky over a calendar year. This shape is a visual representation of a specific place on earth, acting as a fingerprint of place.
- Analemma is a Demeter Certified Biodynamic® grower-producer crafting wines from 100% Columbia Gorge fruit.
- With a commitment to growing biodynamic fruit from inception, we began farming in The Gorge in 2010 and planted the first vines at our estate in Mosier in 2012.
- The concept of Analemma was inspired by an opportunity to realize regenerative farming practices through the production of fine wine.
- Analemma exists to craft characterful wines and foster life through a soulful approach to farming and winemaking. We're built upon a model of a true grower-producer (vigneron).

About the Columbia Gorge AVA

- Western edge receives 45" annual precipitation. Eastern edge receives 12"
- Maritime influence from westerly winds; The Columbia River is the passage through the mountains.
- Elevation of vineyard sites range from 300- 2,000 feet.
- The Missoula Floods flowed through the Gorge up to 40 times with water levels reaching 1000 ft.
- Vineyards <1000' are flood derived soils - well drained, warmer, often irrigated.
- Vineyards >1000" are Volcanic Origin soils - dry farmed, clay and ash loam, more organic matter.
- Mosier Valley (600' elevation) was the site of an eddy & therefore large deposits of cobbles, small boulders & glacial erratics the size of small cars.

About our winemaking and wines:

- Our approach to winemaking begins with pruning. We aim to achieve balance within the vines and therefore the resulting fruit is also balanced.
- We use the native vineyard yeasts for all fermentations.
- We avoid oxygen by using reductive techniques including minimal SO₂.
- Generous amount of whole cluster inclusion in the red wines
- White wines are direct pressed, and barrel fermented & aged for 15 months.
- Our core wines: Mosier Hills Blanco, Mosier Hills Tinto, Mosier Hills Mencia, Mosier Hills Trousseau
